tangible is being done to wards instituting a professorship of Chinese in the University of Oxford. It is much to be regretted that England has lagged so much behind continental nations in this respect. Although her interests in the East, and more especially in the Central Kingdom, vastly exceed in value those of all other European States put together, she has allowed several of them to keep ahead of her in this matter. From a commercial point of view alone it is surprising that she should have done less for the cultivation of Oriental languages and literature than either Germany or France. Whilst the great seats of learning in the United Kingdom have as yet given no oncouragement to the students of Chinese, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and St. Petersburg all have professorships and schools for the study of that ancient language. It is not before time that efforts are being made to remove this national reproach by founding an University Chair for the study of Chinese at Oxford. (From our own Correspondent.) LONDON, 1st October. ... THE INQUIRY INTO THE LOSS OF THE

YANGUARD.

The court martial on Captain Dayking officers, and crew of the Vanguard, terminated on Wednesday. The decision of the Court was that the collision was caused by the high rate of speed of the squadron during the fog, by Captain Dawkins leaving the deck of the Vanquard before the evolution, which was being performed was completed; and, as there were ndications of forgy weather, by the unnecessary reduction of the Vanguard's speed without mignal from the Admiral and without the Vanquard signalling to the Iron Duke ; by the increase of speed (alfred bigh) of the Iron Duke during the fog. by the Iron Duks improperly steering out of line, and finally by want of any fog signal, on board the Iron Duke. The Court was of opinion that the foundering of the Vanguard might have been delayed, if not prevented, had Captain Dawking immediately ordered all the available pumps to be worked instead of employing the crew to hoist out the boats, and had the Cantain. Commander Tandy, Navigating Lieutenant Thomas, Chief Engineer Brown, and Curpenter Tiddy shown more resource, energy, and promptitude in adopting measures to stup the breach, applying the pumps, or having the ship

AMERICA. CHANGES IN THE PACIFIC MAIL.

NEW YORK, September 16th. There is a rumour on the streets that Mr. G S. Scott is about to resign his position in the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. There has been something of a row in the concern, accord ing to current gossip, which will probably result in bringing Mr. Trenor W. Park, President of the Panama Company, into the administration of the Pacific Mail property. PRENCH CITIZENS AND THE CENTENNIAL.

A cable despatch to the Director-General of the International Exhibition appounces an important meeting of citizens held in Paris this morning, which will conduce materially to the success of the Centennial. EUROPE. THE FRENCH PRINCE IMPERIAL TO TAKE TRIP AROUND, THE WOLLD. Paris, September 23rd. It is announced that the Prince Imperial will soon make a tour around the world. The reason alleged for the young Prince under taking the tour is that it is thought necessary for the completion of his education. It bolieved, however, by those competent to form a correct judgment on the matter, that the real purpose is to prevent the Bonapartiets from taking any premature action for the restoration of the Dynasty in the present unfavorable shape of the popular mind.

PUBLIC SECURITY IN ARKANSAS. Six men were hanged on the 3rd September t Fort Smith, Arkansas. Eight men had beer sentenced to death at the previous sitting of the Federal Court, but one was killed afterwards while attempting to escape; and the sentence of the other was commuted to imprisonment for life. The names of the men who was executed were James H. Moore, white; Daniel H. Evans, white; Samuel W. Fooy, quarter Cherokee; Smoker Man-Killer, full blood Cherokee; Edmund Campbell, coloured: and John Whit. tington, white. Whittington killed a neighbour with whom he was riding in the country, and wasicaught by the murdered man's son while rifling the father's pockets. Daniel Evans who was scarcely 21 years of age, and been a high wayman for three years, and murdered mun with whom he was travelling, after which he had the temerity to return to the settlement in thu dead man's clothes. While being sentenced be laughed in the Judge's face. Campbell, a negro, in company with his brother, 14 years of age, and Frank Butler, murdered a men hamen hoss, with whom they were at variance. Butler and Campbell were both sentenced to death, but the former, in attempting to escape, was shot dead. James Moore was a professional borse thief, highwayman, and murderer. Smoker, the Man-Killer, borrowed a man's gun and shot him with it, but was seen by some neighbours, who, though unable to stop the commission of the crime, give evidence upon

French ladies laugh at the English " Mees." for always washing her face. The English " Mees" washes her face and keeps her colour, but a Parisian beauty treats her complexion as if it were a very old and valuable piece of Dresden china. She shades it when the suit shines, and when it becomes, we will not say dirty, but less clear, then she dusts it. If all this care is taken in the country, how will she stands the senside? The answer is that she stands-it-remarkably-well. The-French-are characteristic and feminine by the waves as well as on the boul vards. By feminine, it is meant that the feminiae clement is dominant. We English go for the breeze and the abundon, fresh fish, sand shoes, Christy Minetrels, shrimps. We see the boats in and out with methodical punctuality. There is a stray band; there are also a few effete shops that sell, or rather that don't sell, toy boxes made of shell. There is what is called a marine bazaar. The great things are the sea beach, the fresh air, the brine, and the waves. There are the essentials to enjoyment; the others are accidents. But with the French the sea is the accident. I gives a new direction to dress; it is an inspiration for milliners and modistos, and it enables the glorification of a Parisian lady to be effected under new conditions. Buthing becomes a question of costume, and invention is stimulated to great achievements. Great things are, in deed, achieved, and perhaps a group of Franch in costume amongst the waves is unlike to an English samily party at tea in a Brighton FINE Undersigned is prepared to Grant lodging-house as is possible to conceive. And Policies against Fire to the extent of yet there seems something in the French 1345,000 on First-class Risks. complexion peculiarly susceptible to the beauties which exposure to the air will pro-cient to convince a traveller of the much greater relative importance of the women than the men. It is so in the fashionable world, it is so in the commercial world, and here it is amongst the lower orders. If you go into a shop the man may serve you, but the woman attends to all matters of administration. " He does the mere manual part. She takes your money, makes up your bill, and comes to the assistance "if there is any difficulty. At the theatres—not merely the houses which produce bouffee or pieces & femmes, but where dramus and comedies are acted-the truth repeats itself. Again the women are the attraction and have the important parts. Paris society is encrificed to female influence and here in the blustering little senport of Boulogue, in importance, in station, in efficiency, and by common consent, the women tower over the mcn. IMPEBIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DIOTIONAR' PUNTI AND MANDARIN

PRONUNCIATION. in Anglo-Oninese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

ROR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them; are here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a cleamess not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Judiners' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Obinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst Orders for Copies may be sent to the Daily A Discount of Twenty per cent. Thanks to the traditions and institutions of this country, we are the only people in the world among whom the fusion of classes is not inconsistent with the preservation of class distinctions. We have here orders, but not castes. The lines that domarcate one order from another are part of our social history, and seem to have their sanctions in the very fitness of things. The result is that there is an entire absence of restraint in dur social intercourse, an absence of restraint which would be impossible unless the social distinctions themselves were in their turn as as well defined as they are. It is only those whose reputation is equivocal that are perpetually harping upon their reputation; it is a weary legislator and man of business, as only the parvenu who is perpetually solicitous he contemplates in his mind's eye some such about the dignity of his position; it is only picture as "Red Deer and Moor Fowl."
